Specialist Registrar Skills Course in General Surgery

This course has been designed for those surgical trainees who have satisfactorily completed their period of basic surgical training and are now entering higher surgical training in general surgery. This means that they will have completed the mandatory “Basic Surgical Skills” course and are now ready to expand their surgical skills and to tackle the more advanced surgical techniques.

This course has been designed to prepare the higher surgical trainees in years 1 and 2 for the type of surgical procedures may be encountered during emergency surgery, as well as to equip the trainee with more advanced surgical techniques that may well prove valuable in the future

This course covers three main areas of intermediate surgical skills:

- surgery in general
- vascular surgery
- minimal access surgery

Like basic surgical skills, this course has been designed with an emphasis on individual tuition and detailed personal feedback on performance. It does not seek to impose or promote the technique being demonstrated as being the only safe and sound method for performing a surgical procedure but does endeavor to teach “one safe way” that trainees may utilize.

Features of this course include:

- hands on practice throughout the course
- high tutor-to-participant ratio with a maximum of 12 participants per course
- accompanying course manual and DVD containing key points for each procedure; and
- performance assessment and feedback to identify areas of strength and weakness

Format

- Practical skills teaching
- Tutor to participant ratio of 1:4
- Supported by tutorials, videos and discussion sessions

Duration: 4 Days
